Military Coincidences.

[Lexington Observer]

The editor of the Observer, W. H. Polk, belonged to Col. U. S. Grant's regiment in the civil war. Now the editor's youngest son is under the command of Col. Grant's son, Gen. F. D. Grant, at Chickamauga. Another coincidence is that the editor's son is camped on the very ground where his father's regiment fought Longstreet's division years ago.

From Camp Thomas.

Camp Thomas,
Chickamauga, Ga.,
July 20th, 1898.

The Second Kentucky Regiment is very much disappointed at not being included in the regiment to be sent to Porto Rico, and the men do not now expect to leave Chickamauga until the war is over. There is a strong feeling in the Second that the regiment has been badly treated. It was the first to go into camp at Lexington, the first to be mustered and equipped and the first to be sent to Chickamauga, and then to be kept in camp while the First and Third Kentucky goes to the front, makes the boys of the Second feel anything but contented. The First and Third will be moved within ten days.

Five shots in quick succession in the tent of Capt. Harry Strother, of the Winchester company, caused a commotion Tuesday night. It was caused by a slumbering spark setting fire to his bedding and exploding the cartridges in his belt. Both Capt. Strother and his tent mate, Seth Beckner, escaped from the flying bullets, but the tent equipments and leggings were destroyed.

Brigadier General Fred Grant, who was recently transferred to command the First Brigade, Second Division, Third Corps (Ninth New York, Second Kentucky, First Arkansas), was this afternoon notified by Major General Brooke to take command of the Third Brigade, First Division, First Corps (First Kentucky, Fifth Illinois, Third Kentucky). General Grant said: "While I am grateful at the opportunity to go to the front, I, of course, am not pleased at so many changes of command in so short a period. However, the brigade which I am to take to-morrow is a good one, I am told. The Kentuckians are good fighters, and I have a very liberal allowance of them, about 2,600. From what I could learn at army headquarters it will be about 10 days before I can move." The Second Kentucky boys regret the transfer of Gen. Grant, who is very popular with them. He is a splendid commander and the boys regret that they cannot go to Porto Rico with him. Colonel Elias Chandler, of the First Arkansas, will probably succeed General Grant temporarily in command of this brigade.

Sousa Going To War.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA, the famous bandmaster, has been commissioned a Captain on General Wilson's staff, and has accepted. He will drill the Regimental Bands and ask no remuneration. Sousa is a Spaniard by birth but is willing to go to the front for the Stars and Stripes. Sousa is the composer of the "Stars and Stripes Forever," "The Trooping of the Colors" and the successful comic opera, "The Bride-Elect." He is quite a favorite in this city.
